

+977 91 33102441 / +977 9851115248

The Khopra Danda trek is also known as the Khopra Ridge trek. It is a newly introduced short and delightful but less beaten excursion of Ghorepani Poonhill Trek at Annapurna Region of Nepal. If you're looking for a day or two in the west of Kathmandu (off the beaten path) and with great views, this trek is a good option for you. It combines the best of what Nepal has to offer: amazing mountain views, pastoral villages, and rice fields. The Khopra Danda trek is a relatively easy hike that offers a unique perspective of the Annapurna Himalayas. The trek starts in Pokhara, goes to Ghorepani, and then to Khopra Danda. The trek is a good option for those who want to see the Annapurna Himalayas without the high altitude of the main trek. The trek is a good option for those who want to see the Annapurna Himalayas without the high altitude of the main trek. The trek is a good option for those who want to see the Annapurna Himalayas without the high altitude of the main trek.

The best months for doing Khopra Danda Trek is in March, April, and May in the spring season and also in September, October, and November of Autumn season. Without a doubt, it is one of the best short treks in Nepal.

Excludes